Hubert Draws 3,000 in First Arkansas Talk

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The bands played "Hay, Look Me Over," and about 3,000 Arkansans took a good look at Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in sun-drenched Arlington Park today.

If applause was an indication, they liked what they saw in the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

At least half a dozen times, Humphrey was interrupted by applause and only one heckler made his presence known.

Humphrey was speaking to people who have long considered him a friend—members of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. Co-op members made up about one-third of the crowd and they made it clear that they regard Humphrey as the man he was called in introductory speeches — a great champion of rural electrification.

The band's choice, "Hay Look Me Over," was no accident. The director, Wesley Branstine, said Humphrey requested it. The band was from Lakeside High School near Hot Springs.

Since he was talking to REA people, Humphrey spent most of his time attacking the record of Sen. Barry Goldwater on rural electrification.

Humphrey recalled that he was the second vice presidential candidate to make a major speech in Hot Springs. Arkansas Sen. Joe T. Robinson, Humphrey's 1928 counterpart, made his acceptance speech in his resort city.

Humphrey referred to Robinson as "one of the great statesmen of the New Deal."

And, although Gov. Orval E. Faubus had not yet appeared to welcome him, Humphrey had some kind words for the governor, whose sixth term bid is being challenged by Republican Winthrop Rockefeller.

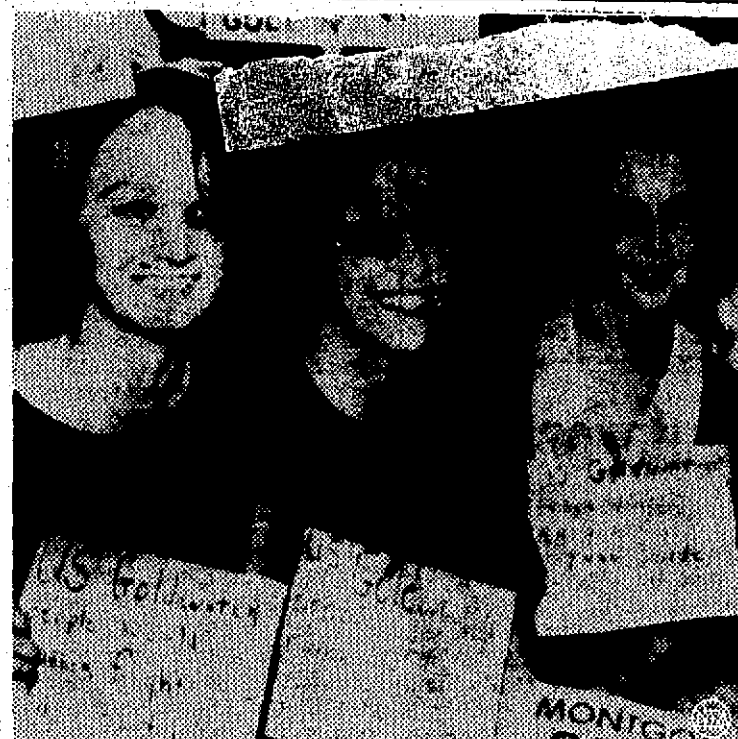

"It's a matter of public record that Gov. Faubus has championed rural electrification and rural industrial development," Humphrey said. "Those who want to see light spread to the countryside salute him in this endeavor."

Humphrey was introduced by Arkansas Sen. J. William Fulbright who was introduced by Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark. When Humphrey rose to speak, he remarked about Fulbright's introduction, "After that glowing introduction, I told Bill that I hoped they didn't run him out of the state."

Clyde T. Ellis, a one-time Arkansas congressman who now is general manager for the national co-op association, called Humphrey "one of the great senators of all time."

"With the possible exception of Lyndon B. Johnson, no man in public life has been more aggressive or effective for rural electrification," Ellis said.

Declaring that the Johnson-Humphrey ticket is the best ever nominated from the point of view of the electric co-operatives, Ellis said, "Goldwater (Continued on Page Two)

HopeWSCS Workshop Thursday

The Hope District Woman's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guilds had a workshop at the First Methodist Church of Hope on Thursday, September 17 with all mission studies for the new year presented.

Mrs. H. W. Timberlake, District Secretary of Missionary Education, gave "Spanish Americans;" Mrs. W. D. Cohea, District Secretary of Spiritual Life, had "Genesis;" and Mrs. Charles Gardner, District President, and a group combined the studies, "The Church's Responsibility to the New Nations" and "The U.S. and the New Nations (Problems and Responsibilities)."

The President of the Little Rock Conference WSCS, Mrs. Edgar Dixon, and the Conference Treasurer, Mrs. L. D. Crenshaw, presented the goals for the WSCS and WSG 25th anniversary, assisted by Mrs. George Meyer, Conference Missionary Education Secretary.

"The Purposes of the WSCS and WSG in the 'New Age' was the subject of a skit by members of the Mary and Martha Class of the local church.

Mrs. F. C. Crow, District Vice-President, had charge of planning the workshop attended by 180 women from throughout the district. Meaningful worship centers were made by Mrs. G. G. Medders, Mrs. Elmer Brown, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. R. L. Broach, and Mrs. Roy Bagley. District Superintendent Dr. Roy I. Bagley concluded the meeting with an inspirational Service of Commitment."

Murders Two, Takes Own Life

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — A man sought on a rape charge killed his wife and another man and then took his own life here Thursday, Coroner Otis Dillinger said.

Dead were Charley Hatfield, 53; Mrs. Jean Watson Hatfield, about 40; and Coleman Moore 44, all of Newport.

The bodies were found about 9 a.m. in a White River fish dock cabin by Ken Hatfield, 14, son of the Hatfields. He had been staying with a neighbor.

Dillinger said Hatfield escaped last week from Jackson County authorities who had charged him with raping his 12-year-old stepdaughter, the daughter of his wife.

Goldwater Coming on October 10

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller said Thursday that Oct. 10 is being considered as the date for Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater to visit Arkansas.

Rockefeller, the GOP candidate for governor, said he hoped the Arizona senator would attend the National Cotton Picking Festival in Blytheville Oct. 10.

Constitution Subject of DAR Meeting

Members of the John Cain Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at their October meeting at the Heritage House heard a program on "Our Constitution," presented by Mrs. Paul Klipsch in observance of Constitution Week, September 17-23.

Mrs. C. M. Agee, Constitution Week Chairman, gave a report on activities planned for local observance. These included a Proclamation by Mayor Frank Douglas, spot announcements on KXAR, a plea for all residents of Hope to fly their flags, and an essay contest in the schools with the winning essay on "What the Constitution Means to Me" to be printed in the Hope Star.

The Regent, Mrs. Otis Blackwood, outlined requirements for the President General's Citation and for the Gold Honor Roll. She stated that the John Cain Chapter was the only one in Arkansas to be placed on the Gold Honor Roll for 1963-64.

Mrs. Richards Howard, American Heritage Chairman, discussed the Chapter's Diamond Jubilee Project, which is the preparation of colored slides of the Washington Pioneer Restoration to be sent to the National Headquarters and made available to all DAR Chapters in the United States. Mrs. Blackwood reported that Miss Alice Lile of Texarkana is preparing a map to accompany the slides, which will show the many historic places and routes in Southwest Arkansas.

The Regent, Mrs. Blackwood, informed the members that Mrs. Edward L. Westbrook of Jonesboro, State Regent, will be a guest of the John Cain Chapter at the October meeting.

Hostesses were Mrs. C. M. Agee, Mrs. Richards Howard, Mrs. Wilbur Jones, and Mrs. Charles Locke.

Railway Shop Workers Plan Strike Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad shop craft unions today called a strike that could cripple the nation's transportation industry, to become effective at 6 a.m. local time Tuesday, Sept. 22.

The strike call was announced by Michael Fox, president of the Railway Employees Department of the AFL-CIO. Heads of the six craft unions involved were sitting at his side.

"Our duty to the employees as their collective bargaining representative leaves us no choice except to fix a strike date pursuant to the authority to strike previously voted by them," Fox said.

"We stand prepared to make a fair and equitable settlement but as of now the strike date can no longer be postponed."

Fox said exceptions among the nation's carriers to the general strike call will be the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Long Island Railroad and the Southern Railway system.

He said an agreement has been reached with the Pennsylvania and agreements are being worked on with the two other lines.

Federal mediators have been meeting this week with union and railroad officials in an effort to avert a strike.

The six unions are demanding a job-security agreement along lines recommended last month by a presidential emergency board.

The board recommended five-year pay guarantees for any shopmen thrown out of work or moved to lower-paying jobs because of technological improvements.

Emergency provisions for halting a strike under present laws have been exhausted and the unions are free to strike.

The six unions involved are those representing the sheet metal workers, boiler makers, machinists, carmen, electrical workers, and firemen and oilers.

Karen to Return to University

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Karen Elizabeth Carlson, Miss Arkansas and first runner-up in the Miss America Pageant, will return to Arkansas Saturday and the University of Arkansas a week later.

The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce and the junior chamber announced Thursday that she would arrive at Little Rock Airport at 1:43 p.m. Saturday from Shreveport.

She will be met by Gov. Orval E. Faubus and other officials, appear at a reception in Little Rock, and be a guest of the Faubus at the Arkansas-Oklahoma State football game that night.

Miss Carlson will go to Norman, Okla., Sunday to take part in the Miss Football USA Pageant.

Representing the local Methodist Church at a conference Youth Rally last week in Hot Springs were Paul Guerin, Mary Ann Bader, Lynn Russell, Betty Schenck, Virginia Edwards, Judy O'Neal and Sarah Bagley. B. W. Russell, attending the MYF sub-district council conference in Prescott last Sunday were Paul Guerin, Susan Cobb and Gayle Medders.

Lady Bird Proves Good Campaigner

By LOU MIO
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson proved she has two solid requirements needed in politics — a sturdy hand and a pair of comfortable shoes.

They kept her going Thursday as she greeted a two-hour-long line of women in Akron and today's session here with the Democratic women from throughout Ohio could hardly promise relief.

More than 3,500 women shook hands with Lady Bird Thursday at a tea luncheon in Akron and while the other female dignitaries kicked off their shoes as they stood in the receiving line, Mrs. Johnson kept hers on and personally greeted each guest.

"I wore comfortable shoes," she explained.

In stocking feet were Mrs. Frank J. Lausche and Mrs. Stephen M. Young, wives of Ohio's senators; Mrs. Anthony J. Celebrezze, wife of the secretary of health, education and welfare, a former Cleveland mayor; Miss Frances McGovern, Akron attorney seeking the 14th District congressional seat, and wives of several city officials. Miss McGovern sponsored the luncheon.

Mrs. Johnson spoke of Miss McGovern as a graduate of the Ohio Legislature "and now you would like to do your postgraduate work in Washington. I know that my husband will be happy to welcome you to his alma mater (Congress)."

Halts Statements That Mislead

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge J. Smith Henley ordered Thursday that Capital Funds, Inc., stop making allegedly misleading statements to get proxy votes in Modern American Mortgage Corp. of Little Rock.

Henley set Sept. 24 as the date for hearing on the injunction.

Apollo Project Rocket in 7th Test Success

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Saturn 1, the world's mightiest space rocket, thundered to its seventh straight test-flight success today, hurling into orbit an unmanned model of the Project Apollo moonship.

The flight was the second in a long series of unmanned Apollo flights leading to three-man earth orbital missions and eventually a lunar landing. The rockets and spacecraft are early versions of hardware being developed for the moon journeys.

The launching was observed today by nine of the nation's astronauts, some of whom may be crewmen on moon flights late in this decade.

The mammoth Saturn 1, 19 stories tall and weighing 570 tons, blazed skyward at 11:23 a.m. (EST) under the tremendous force of 1.5 million pounds of thrust generated by the world's greatest rocket power-plant.

The rocket's massive cluster of eight first-stage engines trailed a plume of flame the length of a football field as it burned for 147 seconds to shove the payload through the dense lower atmosphere. The second stage fired with a 90,000 pound burst of thrust to push the satellite into orbit.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced 11 minutes after launching that the rockets had performed flawlessly and that the Apollo craft, called a "boiler plate" because it is a weighed metal shell, had settled into an orbit ranging from about 115 to 135 miles high.

U.S. Weapon Can Down Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today that two U.S. anti-satellite systems have scored several successful intercepts of U.S. satellites up to "hundreds of miles."

McNamara appeared at a news conference to give some additional details on the anti-satellite systems which President Johnson announced tersely in a speech Thursday at Sacramento, Calif.

The defense secretary said "I'm under serious restriction" as to what details he could give out either about the two satellite-killer systems or about a new over-the-horizon radar which Johnson also announced. Both, he said, are "very highly classified."

He did disclose that the anti-satellite weapons employ the Air Force's Thor missile and the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile device.

McNamara said the Army successfully intercepted its first satellite on Aug. 1, 1963, and the Air Force on May 29, 1964 — in each case, a year after they were ordered to start work on the anti-satellites.

"The two systems have been effectively tested and have intercepted satellites in space, their missiles passing so close as to be within the destruction radius of the warheads," McNamara said.

Faubus Has Cold, May Miss Hubert

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus went to bed with a cold this morning and it was not known whether he would be able to be on the platform with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in Little Rock this afternoon.

A Faubus aide said the governor attended a breakfast at the Craighead County delegation to the Democratic State Convention, then went to the mansion to rest.

"He hopes to get up and go this afternoon," the aide said. "That is his intention."

Faubus and other state Democratic dignitaries, including both U.S. senators, were scheduled to be on the platform with Humphrey in a unity display when Humphrey addressed the State Democratic Convention.

The aide said the cold apparently stemmed from a soaking Faubus got Wednesday when he stopped on the highway near Clarksville in a heavy rain to help two women from Georgia after their car went into a ditch.

Pentagon Fails to Make Clear Any Details

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon received reports today indicating another shooting incident in the Gulf of Tonkin where Communist North Vietnamese PT boats attacked U.S. destroyers last month.

Those encounters triggered a U.S. air strike against the Reds' PT-boat bases and oil supplies. The first "flash" reports did not make clear what had happened, sources said. One report indicated a U.S. destroyer may have been involved.

The White House and the Defense Department refused comment. So did Pacific Fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

The incident apparently occurred after dark, Asian time, which was morning here.

From some quarters came reports that Communist PT boats were believed to be involved again, as in the August incidents.

The weather in the Tonkin Gulf area was reported as foul.

Says Barry Backers Go All the Way

By CHARLES DUMAS
CHICAGO (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller says people who tell pollsters they favor President Johnson are only "lukewarm" about him and may not bother to vote.

This will make the difference on election day, he argued Thursday, because — by contrast — those who favor Sen. Barry Goldwater are "feverishly" supporting him with all their mind and body and soul.

The Republican vice presidential nominee developed this theme during a news conference in Columbus, Ohio, as he sought to discredit polls that show the GOP national ticket trailing the Democrats.

Later, he pressed his attack on the Democratic ticket before an enthusiastic crowd of about 3,500 delegates and spectators at the Ohio Republican state convention.

He hit especially hard at Johnson's running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, whom Miller accused of practicing "deceit and evasion" in defending the Americans for Democratic Action.

Miller then flew to Chicago to address a breakfast meeting today of Illinois and Cook County Republican leaders and to attend a Roman Catholic Mass in conjunction with the annual Polish-American Congress.

He planned to move on to Erie, Pa., and wind-up today's campaign swing at Pittsburgh.

The New York congressman had been turning aside questions on public opinion polls by declaring that "the polls were wrong in New Hampshire, Oregon and California — and they are wrong now."

At the Columbus news conference, however, he volunteered this line — that the polls are not accurate barometers because they usually reflect only yes or no answers.

Miller said that voters rarely were enthusiastic over Johnson, saying such things as "isn't he a wonderful man — I think he's a great American."

Instead, he continued, people blandly say, "Well, he is there and times are good and we might as well keep him."

What Goldwater has going for him, Miller said, "is a tremendously dedicated, enthusiastic, hard-working group of people and this will make a tremendous difference on election day as to the number of people who will come out and will vote."

"You can rest assured that everyone in the country who favors Senator Goldwater will be recorded on election. While the enthusiasm on the other side of the fence is a negative one, a lukewarm one."

and Miller have opposed the programs that rural America lives by. No amount of campaign oratory can erase that fact."

Humphrey rode to the speaker's platform in a motorcade from the presidential suite in the Majestic Hotel three blocks away. So many people tried to shake his hand that it took him about 10 minutes to get to the platform.

Humphrey made his first bid for Arkansas votes to the tune of "Dixie" at the Hot Springs airport Thursday night.

By HARRY KELLY
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, hoarse but happy after a long day's journey through Texas, pressed his Southern vote hunt today in Gov. Orval E. Faubus' Arkansas.

It was Humphrey's first vice presidential campaign venture into the South—a South he says will, on the main, stay in the Democratic column in November despite passage of the civil rights bill.

After declaring in the Lone Star State Thursday that he and President Johnson "hope" to match or better Franklin D. Roosevelt's landslide victory of 1936, Humphrey today turned his guns on Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater over rural economics.

Addressing a four-state regional meeting of the National Rural Electric Co-operators Association, the Minnesota senator contended that rural Americans might still be living in "utter darkness" if it had been up to Goldwater.

Humphrey said farm areas got electricity because a Congress and Democratic administration "believed that the government should work for the people. And the people believed and called upon the government."

But, said Humphrey, as he has time and again, "the philosophy of Goldwaterism holds that people should be suspicious of the government, that they should mistrust the government, that they should fear the people who work for the government."

He then struck his theme that the federal government has been an instrument for progress and prosperity. In this case, he said, it was Federal legislation that created the Rural Electrification Administration and brought rural America out of the darkness.

"Senator Goldwater," said Humphrey, "has consistently voted against rural electrification and has just as consistently

Communist Structure Shows Strain

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's Communist party structure is showing the strain of its massive quarrel with the Soviet party.

Doubt, contradictions and quarrels are infecting the highest levels of the Chinese party.

Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung has ordered a nationwide purge to halt the infection which began with the publication of the theories of Yang Hsien-chen, a philosopher an central committee member who was educated in the Soviet Union.

Yang, whose influence as president of the higher party school was enormous, pushed a theory that it is possible for capitalism and communism to merge. Mao calls this a betrayal of the Marxian theory of class struggle, of China's own line that revolution is the only way to defeat the West and communize have-not nations.

In August, an article in the party's newspaper, the Peking People's Daily, denounced Yang as a proponent of "modern revisionism." This meant he was espousing Soviet Premier Khrushchev's ideas.

For weeks it has been known that not everyone in China agreed with Mao's uncompromising policies of violence. But how deep was the disaffection?

The Sept. 11 issue of "The Peking Review" gives this answer: "At the present time, the debate which has started on the philosophical front in our country is continuing. In terms of numbers of participants or of its widespread influence and great significance, a debate such as voted against all the related programs that make rural electrification possible."

He said he was talking about the Tennessee Valley Authority, other federal wholesale power authorities, dams and "all the programs which build rural America."

The Winning Essay in DAR Contest

(Editors Note: John Cain Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution presents the winning essay in a contest on "What the Constitution Means to Me.")

By TONY SMITH
Hope High School Junior
What the Constitution Means To Me

"We, the people of the United States, in order to..." These words and those that follow them form the prelude of the most important governmental document ever conceived by the mind of man — the Constitution of the United States of America. After hearing these exalted words concerning our proud heritage, a young person in today's push-button civilization might simply shrug and say, "So what? What has some old piece of paper written almost two hundred years ago got to do with me?"

Tragically enough, some people today are far more interested in "soured-up engines," the "Beatles" or similar diversions to care in any way about our forefathers and their wise intentions for American society. Let us hope, however, that these people, both teenager and adult, are in the minority, and that today's citizens and future citizens hold as much concern for their basis of freedom as did their ancestors. And so with these thoughts of hope and interest in our minds, let us examine what the constitution means to this teenager.

It was written in Philadelphia, the birthplace of many of our freedoms, in the latter portion of the 1700's. Originally, the authors of this document had only planned to improve the old method of government, known as the Articles of Confederation. But soon it became evident that an entirely new model was necessary, for the Articles of Confederation were too weakly constructed to keep these newly formed states united and free from European intervention or economic chaos. And so, this "constitution" was written, debated and even cursed by those who opposed its formation. They stated adamantly that it would imprison the people in a tyrannical even more horrid than that of George III. And yet, after all the tumult and argument, the Constitution was finally ratified by nine states (exactly enough to order its ratification) almost a year after its signing.

The Constitution divided the Federal governmental powers into three bodies: the Legislative Department, consisting of the House of Representatives and the Senate, which made the laws; the Judicial Department, a high court which interpreted the laws; and the Executive Department, headed by the President, which carried out the laws. The document also prescribed methods by which the President, Executive officials and members of the Congress would be chosen. In addition, it separated the powers of the Federal government from those of the states, and defined each of their limitations. Added later were various amendments. The first ten of these are known as the Bill of Rights, which guaranteed citizens of the United States basic freedoms. Other amendments over the years have abolished slavery and given Negroes citizenship and the right to vote, changed the presidential election procedure, instituted a Federal income tax, limited a president to serve from six to ten years (in case of presidential succession), or to two full terms, abolished the poll tax in Federal elections, and have accomplished many more valuable additions to the Constitution.

This, then, is a somewhat simplified form of my idea of the Constitution and its workings. But of what concern is the Constitution to me and those like me today? Simply this: there are those among us who cry that the Federal government has become a gigantic, marauding bandit that steals the rights of the individual states like a thief in the night. With the passage of the recent Civil Rights Bill, the Anti-Poverty Bill and others, some Americans fear that we are speeding headlong toward a confining Socialism. And yet on the other side, more liberal minds believe that the Constitution is flexible, and that as our country changes, it also must change, so that sickness, hunger and prejudice may be wiped from the face of the Earth. I can not, in my mind, believe that our forefathers would not have wished such changes, if they resulted in such benevolent prospects and freedoms for all Americans. Still, there are those who disagree with me, and therein, lies the duty of us as future voters. With the Constitution and our consciences as guides, we must answer these questions and thus determine the future of all Americans. Having lived in two foreign countries, I can testify that we have the finest model of government and the most envied, anywhere in the world. My God help us to use this great document, the Constitution, to protect ourselves and those whom we hold so dear.

Beware, Communists, Extremists — those who would insidiously rob us of our freedom. We have the will to win and the weapon, our Constitution, to make us victorious. With the help of God, you will be defeated, and this planet will exist until eternity under the cause of freedom so well defined in our hope for tomorrow — the Constitution and the Government of the United States of America.

Freshmen at Southern State

MAGNOLIA — Two Freshmen from Hope, Dianne Smith and Carolyn Hatfield (center) were among the record 1,800 students enrolling for the fall semester at Southern State College last week. Dianne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith of 205 Margaret and will major in psychology. Carolyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hatfield of 713 W. Ave. B, is an office administration major. Comparing notes with them on college are Sharon Jarrell of Hot Springs, left, and Nancy Westigton of Vernon, New Jersey.

When the 10-year project is completed, vehicles can go in a matter of hours to points that today require days of strenuous and dangerous travel.

Many South American capitals are modern and bustling, but because of a lack of roads the countries' interiors usually are backward and forgotten. Inaccessible regions hold tremendous wealth both above and below the surface.

One American engineer compares the road project with the extension of the railroads in the U.S. West a century ago.

Helping the countries finance the roads are the U.S. government, the Export-Import Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank.

Here is a rundown: Colombia — A preliminary study is under way for a 1,856-mile section of the jungle highway. More than 900 miles will pass through unsettled country, considered excellent for development of livestock, lumber, fish, game and petroleum.

The Colombian government feels that thousands of families can settle on the rich lands.

Ecuador — Reconnaissance studies of the 500-mile stretch of the jungle highway are nearing completion. Twelve zones have been selected with a total of four million acres in which 68,000 families could be settled.

The highway will connect with the interoceanic project between Ecuador and Brazil, a road that would run from the port of San Lorenzo on the Pacific to Manaus, the Amazon River port in Brazil.

A new road between Quito, the inland capital, and Guayaquil, the big banana river port on the Pacific, reduces travel time from 18 to seven hours.

Peru — Construction is expected to start within a few months on the first paved highway across the Andes in the northern part of the country.

The 220-mile road is expected to cost $47 million.

Only 20 per cent of Peru's 22,320 miles of highway are paved.

Bolivia — The marginal jungle highway project for this landlocked country is still under study. The Bolivia section will be approximately 1,250 miles long and will start at Cobija in the northwest corner of the country. It will extend southward to Yacapai in the center of the nation, and from there it will branch out.

Of Bolivia's 12,000 miles of roads, only 340 are paved.

Bar Canons to Be Reviewed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Edward L. Wright of Little Rock will head a special 12-man committee which will handle a review of the American Bar Association's canons of professional ethics—the first complete review since the canons were adopted in 1908.

Highways to Open Land in 4 Nations

By THOMAS J. STONE

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A proposed network of highways penetrating the heart of South America is expected to open up thousands of square miles of rich, unsettled jungle land to modern pioneers.

The roads, part of the South American marginal jungle highway system, are under construction or in the final planning stages in Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia. They will connect the four countries and cross the Andes to fertile, undeveloped lands on the eastern slopes of the Continental Divide.

When the 10-year project is completed, vehicles can go in a matter of hours to points that today require days of strenuous and dangerous travel.

Many South American capitals are modern and bustling, but because of a lack of roads the countries' interiors usually are backward and forgotten. Inaccessible regions hold tremendous wealth both above and below the surface.

One American engineer compares the road project with the extension of the railroads in the U.S. West a century ago.

Helping the countries finance the roads are the U.S. government, the Export-Import Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank.

Here is a rundown: Colombia — A preliminary study is under way for a 1,856-mile section of the jungle highway. More than 900 miles will pass through unsettled country, considered excellent for development of livestock, lumber, fish, game and petroleum.

The Colombian government feels that thousands of families can settle on the rich lands.

Ecuador — Reconnaissance studies of the 500-mile stretch of the jungle highway are nearing completion. Twelve zones have been selected with a total of four million acres in which 68,000 families could be settled.

The highway will connect with the interoceanic project between Ecuador and Brazil, a road that would run from the port of San Lorenzo on the Pacific to Manaus, the Amazon River port in Brazil.

A new road between Quito, the inland capital, and Guayaquil, the big banana river port on the Pacific, reduces travel time from 18 to seven hours.

Peru — Construction is expected to start within a few months on the first paved highway across the Andes in the northern part of the country.

The 220-mile road is expected to cost $47 million.

Only 20 per cent of Peru's 22,320 miles of highway are paved.

Bolivia — The marginal jungle highway project for this landlocked country is still under study. The Bolivia section will be approximately 1,250 miles long and will start at Cobija in the northwest corner of the country. It will extend southward to Yacapai in the center of the nation, and from there it will branch out.

Of Bolivia's 12,000 miles of roads, only 340 are paved.

Phelps Denies Reported Rumor

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Ralph Phelps, president of Churches United Against Gambling, said today a rumor is circulating in parts of Arkansas that his group is a front organization to try to defeat Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Phelps said the rumor is not true.

Phelps is president of Ouachita Baptist College in Arkadelphia.

"We are not a front organization for anybody or anything," he said. "We are an open organization which has the clearly stated purpose of defeating Amendment No. 35 which would legalize casino gambling."

Phelps said the rumor had cropped up frequently and in many places over the state. He said he thought it was spread by promoters of legalized gambling.

Phelps said the timing of the rumors seems especially significant since many churches will take offerings Sunday to set up a campaign fund for CUAG.

Princess Now Youngest Queen of All

By EDDY GILMORE
ATHENS, Greece (AP)—King Constantine of the Hellenes wed Denmark's beautiful Princess Anne-Marie today amid the Byzantine magnificence of Athens' Greek Orthodox Cathedral.

Anne Marie, 18, became the queen of Greece and the world's youngest queen. At 24 her husband is the world's youngest monarch.

She was a gorgeous bride and the dark-haired king a strikingly handsome bridegroom. It was a spectacularly colorful ceremony, but it had its very human moments - when Anne-Marie giggled, and when Queen Mother Frederika came close to hitting Britain's Prince Charles with one of the two crowns used in Greek Orthodox weddings.

Charles did not duck, but he eyed the heavy crowns with concern.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II was the only reigning European monarch not present. Preparing for a visit to Canada, she sent her husband, Prince Philip. Her

Bids Opened on Asphalt Road

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Army Engineers will open bids Oct. 29 on 14,700 linear feet of asphalt road 22 feet wide to provide access to Lock and Dam No. 7 on the Arkansas River northwest of here. The road project is estimated at $400,000.

two teen-age children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, were members of the wedding party.

Anne-Marie's wedding gown was of duchesse satin, in classic Greek style with a high waist and simple lines. The dress was gathered at the waist by an heirloom brooch, and the bosom was covered with lace that had belonged to her maternal grandmother, Crown Princess Margaretha of Sweden, who wore it at her wedding.

Her veil, worn with a family tiara, had been worn by her mother, Queen Ingrid, at her wedding. The wedding gown ended in a short train of frilled silk organza, while another train 40 feet long fell from her shoulders and was carried by her six bridesmaids.

Constantine wore a white military uniform with rows of decorations.

The 45-minute service was conducted by Archbishop Chrysostomos, 85-year-old primate of Greece's Orthodox Church. Looking on was Patriarch Alexei of Moscow and all Russia.

Also on hand was a glittering gathering of kings, queens, princesses and princes. President Johnson was represented by his daughter Lynda Bird. A scorching sun burned from a cobalt blue sky, and inside the cathedral the 1,600 guests and principals looked very warm.

Perspiration stood on many royal brows, including that of bride's father, King Frederik of Denmark.

Throughout the service a choir in the loft sang, providing a soft obbligato to the archbishop's deep tones.

The day was a national holiday, and more than a million Greeks lined the streets to cheer their young king and queen.

After the wedding, Constantine and Anne-Marie, riding in a gilded, open carriage drawn by six white horses, headed a wedding procession through the streets of the capital. Carloads of royalty drove behind them.

Bands played, cannon boomed a 101-gun salute from Mt. Lycabettus, highest point of Athens, and all the city's church bells rang.

The procession ended at the palace where a wedding feast waited.

Satellite Co. Will Name Managers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Satellite Corp. makes official today election of its temporary managers to permanent positions on the board of directors.

Backed by the traditional trump cards of company directors — management-held proxies — they were elected Thursday at COMSAT's initial stockholders meeting.

But there was considerable opposition, and on a technically formal certification of the election and a recount were put over until today.

Meanwhile, George H. Poirier of Woonsocket, R.I., who fought management on the election and lost, served notice he will take his battle to unseat the newly named board to federal court.

Just this week, the U.S. District Court and an appeals court here rejected an effort by the textile manufacturer to force a 60-day delay in the meeting to give him time to "round up proxies."

Poirier has charged the COMSAT management with improper and undemocratic procedures.

The six members of COMSAT's temporary founding board of directors now permitted to take seats on the permanent board are:

Leo D. Welch, chairman; Joseph V. Charyk, president; David M. Kennedy of Chicago; George Killian of San Francisco; Leonard H. Marks of Washington; and Bruce G. Sundtun of Washington.

These six were appointed originally by the late President John F. Kennedy. They represent the six places on the 15-man board given to public investors.

Communications carrier firms are major stockholders in the congressionally created firm and their six places on the board were given Thursday to:

James E. Dingman; Harold M. Botkin and Horace P. Moulton, all of New York and all designated by American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Eugene R. Black and Ted B. Westfall, both of New York and both designated by International Telephone & Telegraph Co.; and Douglas S. Guild of Honolulu, nominated by the Hawaiian Telephone Co.

President Johnson will appoint three more directors.

Yankees Down Angles, Take League Lead

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Yoo hoo, Yogi, you can't be in first place. This is 1964. Yogi, formally known as Manager Berra, and his New York Yankees climaxed a 42-day drive to the top of the American League Thursday night with a 6-2 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels.

The victory lifted the Yankees two percentage points — .593 to .591 — ahead of the idle Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, who are tied for second.

With two fewer losses than the other contenders, the Yankees appear to be in a good position to capture their fifth straight pennant.

But besides the Orioles and the White Sox standing in their way, the Yankees are faced with the oddity that they've never won the pennant in a year ending in "4."

Yankee teams have finished second in four of the six years of that type in this century, but that's as close as they've come. Their second place finish in 1954 ended a string of five consecutive pennants.

The Yankees have 17 games in which to shatter that unwanted reputation while Baltimore and Chicago have 13 each in which to extend it.

All three teams play at home tonight with the Yankees hosting Kansas City, Baltimore engaging Los Angeles and Chicago taking on Washington. New York holds a 9-6 margin over the Athletics, the Orioles are 9-6 with the Angels and the White Sox lead the Senators 11-4.

The Angels-Yankees game was the only one scheduled in the AL Thursday night. In the National League, Cincinnati beat Chicago 7-5 and Philadelphia edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

New York's latest victory came with a big help from the bullpen. Roland Sheldon rescued starter Mel Stottlemyre in the seventh inning after the Angels had scored two runs and had the bases loaded with one out.

Sheldon struck out pinch hitter Ed Kirkpatrick and got pinch hitter Felix Torres to hit into a force out.

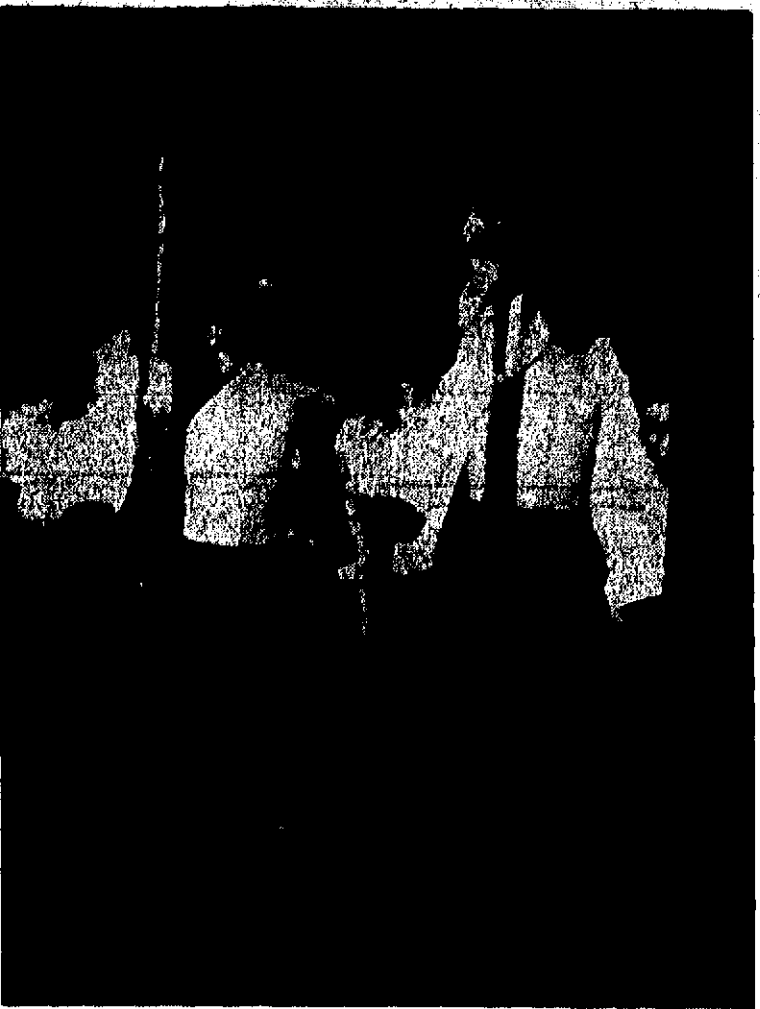

Stottlemyre, now 7-2, had allowed only one hit through the first six innings. That was a bust single by Bob Rodgers in the fifth.

Mickey Mantle collected a single, a double and his 31st homer, a two-run smash in the seventh, for New York. His single in the sixth inning was the 2,000th hit of his major league career.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It was "horrible, absolutely horrible," what Constellation did to Sovereign.

And there is no let up on the horizon even though there will be no racing today at Sovereign's request.

Peter Scott, skipper of the Royal Thames Yacht Club's challenger, put it as well as any one ever after Sovereign's disastrous defeat in the second America's Cup race Thursday.

With Constellation now needing but two wins to retain the cup for the United States, what did he think of Sovereign's chances?

"I expect pretty much as you do. But, you know, hope springs eternal in the human breast and the final issue is decided after the fourth race, not the second."

The victory margin in time was the widest margin since 1886 in the 19 challenges for the cup — 20 minutes and 24 seconds or about 2-1/3 miles.

If the Gods of the sea are ever going to beam on Sovereign, it seemed they must have been doing so at the start of Thursday's match. The wind blew a chilly 21 knots from the Southwest, the kind of blow the British yacht had been praying for.

Racing will resume Saturday, weather permitting. Sovereign is to have some sails recut and she will be out again this afternoon doing homework on spinaker drills.

Count Reaches Ten for Phils Who Up Lead

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The count has reached 10 for both the Philadelphia Phillies and the Los Angeles Dodgers. The National League-leading Phillies reduced their magic pennant-clinching number to 10 Thursday night while tolling 10 over the Los Angeles Dodgers, handing the defending champions a 4-3 defeat that mathematically eliminated them from contention.

The victory boosted the Phillies' bulge over idle, second-place St. Louis to 6 1/2 games with 15 games remaining and left this magic number situation: Any combination of Phillies' victories or Cardinal defeats totaling 10 will bring Philadelphia its first NL flag since 1950.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, are holding onto second place by only one game over the Cincinnati Reds, who rode a three-homer salvo to a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the only other NL games scheduled.

In the lone game on the American League program, the New York Yankees defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-2 and took over first place by two percentage points over idle Baltimore and Chicago.

The Phillies got the job done against Don Drysdale with the aid of three errors that led to four unearned runs, tagging the Dodger right-hander with his seventh straight loss to Philadelphia. Drysdale has not beaten the Phillies since June 1, 1962.

Locked in a 3-3 tie going into the ninth, Drysdale started his own downfall when he hit lead-off batter Ruben Amaro with a pitch. Ron Sainly then added to Drysdale's troubles, grabbing a pop-bunt by John Briggs but throwing wild to first in an attempt to double up Amaro.

Amaro reached second base on the play, moved to third on a single by Tony Gonzalez and scored as Richie Allen hit into a force play.

The Phillies had scored three unearned runs in the first inning as Maury Wills made two errors, but the Dodgers got two back in their half against rookie Rick Wise.

Bobby Shantz then came on for the Phillies in relief and was touched for the tying run in the sixth on Tommy Davis' run-producing single.

Shantz, however, wound up with the victory — his first for the Phillies — as he checked the Dodgers on three hits in 7 2/3 innings before leaving for a pinch hitter in the ninth. Drysdale's loss was his 14th against 18 victories.

Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson and Johnny Edwards homered as the Reds built a commanding 7-1 lead going into the ninth. Jim O'Toole, meanwhile, had retired 22 Cubs in order after allowing a first inning run.

John Boccabella's single, Andre Rodgers' triple, a single by Billy Cowan and Ron Santo's homer chased O'Toole. Sammy Ellis came on and got the last two outs, preserving O'Toole's 15th victory against seven losses. Lew Burdette took the loss for a 10-9 record.

The Phillies will try to reduce their magic number against the Dodgers tonight, starting Chris Short, 17-7, against Pete Richter, 2-1.

At the same time, their closest pursuers meet head-on at Cincinnati with the Cardinals starting Curt Simmons, 15-9, against the Reds' John Tsitouris, 7-11. Fourth-place San Francisco is at home to Pittsburgh.

Porkers Open Sat. Against Oklahoma S.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Fred Marshall steps into the green of War Memorial Stadium here Saturday night something he never was in 1963: The A.No. 1 first string, strawblossing quarterback of the Arkansas Razorbacks.

He gets a chance to prove to a sellout crowd of 41,000 fans what he has believed all along: That he can get the job done.

The job in this non-conference season starter is Oklahoma State University, whose Cowboys have been shut out of the saddle seven seasons in a row by the Razorbacks.

There is little doubt, however, that the Cowboys are stronger this year than, probably, in any of the previous seven seasons. Phil Cutchin has done a remarkable job of rebuilding the OSU team, and he brings fourth a veteran defense to test

Snead and Tim Brown. Washington 31, Dallas 28 — These clubs play some wild ones. Sonny Jurgens throwing and Charley Taylor running against vulnerable Cowboy defense. Meredith must have big day to make favorite role stand up.

AFL Oakland 28, Houston 24, Saturday night — Oilers won't blitz Raiders like Boston did last week. Al Davis beat Houston twice last year and again in an exhibition game 34-20. Why not again?

Buffalo 27, Denver 20 — Improved Bills should handle Broncos — although Jack Lee always a threat to leaky Buffalo secondary.

San Diego 21, Boston 13 — These two clubs played two close-to-the-vest games last year before title game rout. Sid Gillman has outside threat to counter Pats' blitzing tactics.

Here's How This Year's Bobcats Look to Coach

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

Here is the 1964 edition of the Hope Bobcats. All statements are by head coach Alan Howard.

Quarterbacks
Vince Massanelli — Vince is a 145-pound senior upon whom the duty rests to move the football. He is a fine runner and a better than average passer. He has developed into a fine leader.

Buddy Jordan — Buddy is a 145-pound senior. He is one of the outstanding throwing quarterbacks in the state. He is also a fine punter, but he has been hampered with a pulled muscle in his leg since the start of the season.

Sam Strong — Sam is a 143-pound junior who had the misfortune of breaking his arm during the first practice. He should be with us in a few weeks; however.

Mike Westbrook — Mike is a sophomore. A small boy, he's long on courage. He's a utility man in the backfield, besides quarterback. He had a lot of experience playing junior ball.

Halfbacks
Jerry Burnett — A 159-pound senior, Jerry is one of the truly fine running backs in the state. He is also an excellent pass receiver and blocker. He plays linebacker on defense and will really hit.

Johnny Samuels — Johnny is a 140-pounder with three letters. He's a real little scooter and very much one of our leaders. Though small, Johnny runs with a lot of authority.

Ronnie Ingram — Ronnie is a 133-pounder who specializes as defensive halfback and does a tremendous job. We expect his running to improve as the season progresses.

Bobby Samuels — Bobby is a 140-pound junior halfback. He is a good runner and also plays defensive halfback and end.

Gene Thompson — Gene is a 128-pound junior. He missed the first few weeks of practice, but has made tremendous improvement as of late.

Fullbacks
Jerry Waller — Jerry, a 145-pound senior, is one of the smallest fullbacks in the state, but he still runs with a lot of authority. Jerry is an exceptional blocker and a real inspiration to the team and to the coaches.

Fred Easterling — A 151-pound sophomore, Fred is improving daily and we expect great things from him in the next three years.

Ends
Stan Parris — Stan is a 152-pound sophomore who has great hands and is rapidly becoming a good blocker. He also plays safety on defense.

Larry May — Larry, a 146-pound junior, is really coming into his own. He has made tremendous improvement in all phases of the game. He's a boy we're all proud to be associated with.

Eddie Aslin — Eddie is a 169-pound junior who's been out of the line-up since the first game. He's a good blocker and pass receiver, and should be with us in time for the Smackover game.

Tackles
Harry McMahon — He is a 220-pound senior who does a tremendous job. An exceptional blocker and defensive football player, he has rare speed for a boy his size. He is one of our hardest workers.

Richard Lang — Richard, a 158-pound senior, moved to Hope from Midland, Texas. He is a good blocker and tough on defense. We expect him to be a fine football player with more experience.

Gene Shoemaker — Gene is a 150-pound tackle. This is only his second year of football and we expect him to improve with experience.

Guards
Tommy Still — He is a 144-pound senior who loves to play.

EDITION
A boy who has taken limited natural ability and worked so hard that he is a fine football player. He's very determined and a fine competitor.

Paul Guerin — Paul is a 180-pound senior who is a hard worker and consequently one of our sharpest blockers and tacklers. He is having to learn the line-backer position, but improves every day of practice.

Dennis Turner — A 148-pound sophomore, Dennis is making rapid improvement and should be a lot of help before the season is over.

Mike Dillard — Mike is a 120-pound sophomore who is a tremendous inspiration to the little man in football. He's one of our very best workers and should develop into a good football player.

Centers
Dick Willis — Dick is a 149-pound senior who is a real hard worker and one of our leaders. He's real tough on defense, and probably one of our most underrated football players.

Terry Powell — Terry, a 150-pound senior, is only in his second year of football. He has made a lot of improvements, and should be a lot of help to us as he gains experience.

Ken Willis and Dale Douglas are two late comers to the squad. Neither has played football before. Both are only sophomores, so they have three years to learn.

Last year the Bobcats had an 11-1 overall record, and went undefeated in the district to capture the crown with a 6-0.

The only team to defeat Hope was Texarkana, who ended the season with a third place in the state.

Here is the complete record for the Cats:

- Hope 7 Texarkana 19
- Hope 14 Morrilton 0
- Hope 31 DeQueen 14
- Hope 33 Smackover 14
- Hope 27 Malvern 0
- Hope 31 Crossett 0
- Hope 29 Fairview 15
- Hope 26 Magnolia 20
- Hope 20 Camden 7
- Hope 34 Gurdon 7
- Hope 30 Arkadelphia 6
- Hope 52 Nashville 13
- Total 324 - 115.

No Time to Negotiate, U.S. Feels

World Today
By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tough Communist line in the current talks among Laos' leaders is re-enforcing the official U.S. view that now is no time to negotiate with the Reds over neighboring South Viet Nam.

Washington has not slammed the door on a Viet Nam parley someday — perhaps after the campaign against the Viet Cong makes more headway and Peking-Hanoi decide the guerrilla terrorism is not worthwhile. But U.S. authorities say that day is not yet in sight.

Talk of negotiations cropped up during Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's Washington visit last week. Taylor said all wars end with negotiation and military means alone cannot win the fight in South Viet Nam.

However, the former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff predicted eventual victory through a combined political-military-economic program. Then he headed back to Saigon — arriving amid another government upheaval.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dean Rusk publicly looked to the talks now under way in Paris between Laos' neutralist, rightist and leftist leaders for any evidence that Asia's Communists have decided to slacken their drive on Southeast Asia.

State Department sources reported Thursday that Red Prince Souphanouvong has shown no real intent of withdrawing his Pathet Lao forces from strategic ground seized in the last offensive. Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma said he is preparing to break off the Paris negotiating session.

This leaves the State Department even less inclined to swing toward French President Charles de Gaulle's view that another Geneva conference should be held to work out a peace based on neutralization of the Indochina states.

President Johnson roundly denounced the De Gaulle idea earlier this year. "We do not believe in a conference called to ratify terror," he said.

Administration officials explain that: De Gaulle's idea would involve U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam. The United States is against pulling out with the Communists still on the offensive there. Taylor testified that a U.S. departure would bring "a major disaster" turning not only to South Viet Nam but most of South Asia over to the Communist camp.

De Gaulle's premise, drawn from France's defeat in Indochina 10 years ago, is that a military victory there is impossible. But that does not mean negotiation now is the only way out. U.S. policy makers figure that a combination of civil and military measures can gain the upper hand over the insurgents.

These include greater governmental stability and incentives to the population to follow peaceful pursuits.

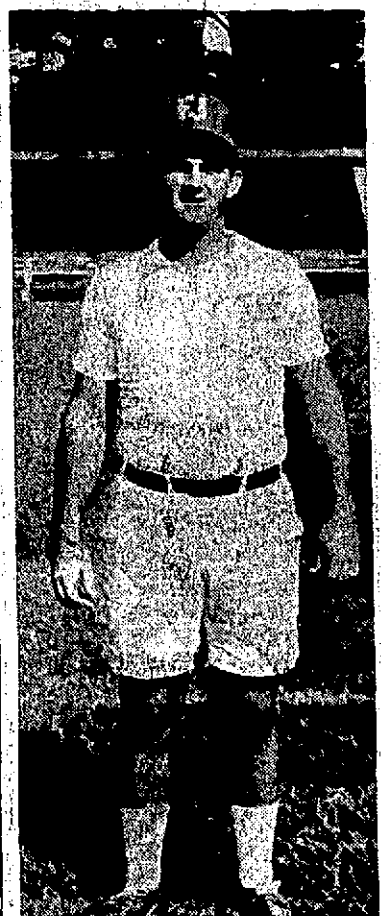

Instead of negotiating from a basis of weakness about U.S. withdrawal, as indicated in the De Gaulle approach, the United States wants to develop a base of strength from which any talk would be about concessions to be made by the Reds. But these conditions, U.S. officials say, are not in the foreseeable future.

Varying ideas about what to do in Viet Nam have come from prominent members of Congress without making much of a dent in administration policy so far.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., while jolting the administration on some other foreign policy matters with his talk about "old myth and new realities," has generally supported the policy on South Viet Nam.

On the other hand, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has suggested that De Gaulle's neutralization proposal is worth looking into. Mansfield says the United States is too close to full involvement in what should be a war fought by the Vietnamese.

Democratic Senators Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernie Gruening of Alaska say the Americans should pull out.

Plans Abandoned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Highway Commission abandoned Wednesday plans to remodel East Grand Ave. in Hot Springs, ending two years of studies, conferences and public hearings on the project.

Acting Highway Director Ward Goodman said the commission decided to drop the project because of the problem of handling traffic while remodeling the avenue, which connects U.S. 70 with the heart of the city.

Picking the Winners on Saturday

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

Arkansas' rebuilt Razorbacks step onto the plush turf of War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock Saturday night to get their mettle tested by a veteran Oklahoma State University defense.

It is a testament to the endeavors of Phil Cutchin that the Cowboys no longer can be written off as Razorback triumph No. 1. It is also an indication that strong memories of last season's sudden drop to a 5-5 record linger on.

Coach Frank Broyles has said that the key to Arkansas' success this season rests largely on how well the Porker offense can manage. It will have only one

Eagles Are Unknown But Always Mean

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

If the Eagles of Crossett plan anything big for this season, they will have to do it from where else? The air.

Crossett will be another 4AA team this year that will put a lot of emphasis on an aerial attack. David Young, 165-pound senior quarterback, will be head gunner. Last year he completed 53 percent of his attempted passes. Junior Mike Buchner was on the receiving end of many of these, and will be more so this season. He can snag nearly anything coming into the general vicinity, and then complete the assignment by outstepping his defenders.

Speedy halfbacks will be Teddy Keen and Buddy Carter. Paul Whitbur should do more than satisfactorily in his fullback slot. Crossett uses a wing T.

A lot of improvement on the line may bolster up the Birds where they were weakest last year — on defense. In the six conference games, they gave up an average of a little better than eighteen points.

The interior line will consist of tackles Lamar Hill, heavy man, at 230, and Roy Searcy. Guards are Mike Fittrell and Bob DeChaine, and center is Paul Meredith.

The Eagles' speedy as always, already have one district win under their belts.

NORTHEAST OKLAHOMA 21, ARKANSAS TECH 14. A shock for the Wonder Boys.

OUACHITA 13, SOUTHEAST OKLAHOMA 0. The Baptists are back.

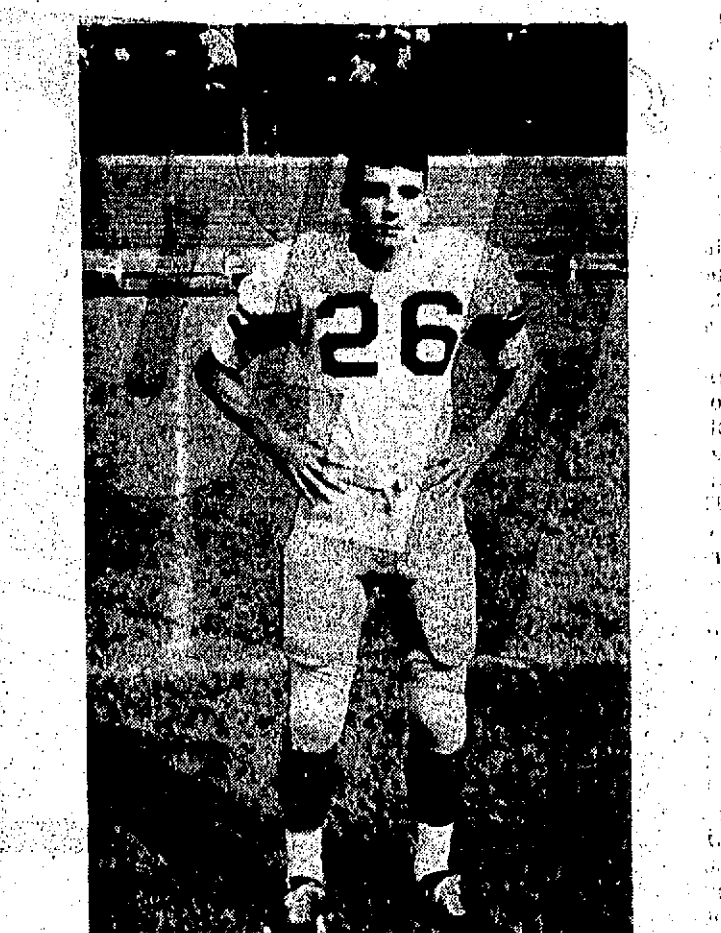

FORT SILL 13, HARDING COLLEGE 7. Better than last week, but not good enough.

CENTRAL OKLAHOMA 20, OZARKS 7. But a better game than the score will indicate.

Malvern Looks Good This Season

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

With a large part of their hopes piled on quarterback Phil Clem, the Malvern Leopards could give the Bobcats a good run for the money this year.

With one district win under their belts already, and against contender Magnolia at that, they have zoomed off and could pick up enough momentum to be hard to stop. This Friday they go against Crossett, who romped on Arkadelphia last week.

165-pounder Clem did an excellent job last year, and has already started off the season with two touchdowns in the opener against Prossett. He threw for one against Magnolia.

Helping out with the offensive chores will be punishing fullback Rab Wilson, a 185-pounder who also did fairly well for himself last year.

Three good halfbacks should be enough to choose from. Steve Efrid, blooded last year, will start on the right side, and either Jerry Gullett, 155, or Steve Dedman, 165, will be at left.

A line full of lettermen is coming back for the Leopards. Jerry Petty, 205, and Phil Schlenker, 185, are top tackles. Petty holds the class AA record in the shot with 55-2, and the discus with 157-8 1/2.

Jim Krugel and Mike Sammons, both 165, are letterman guards. Ronnie Mayton, 185, is probable at center.

Although not outstanding, the Malvern line will at least be creditable. The backfield lacks speed, and the defense won't be a strong point, either.

The Leopards are not to be counted out this soon, anyway. Last season they came very close to changing regional standings. They dropped games to both Smackover and Magnolia, 7-6 and 6-0, respectively. They vow they will not do it again.

NEA to Place Negro in Top Position

By MARGARET WILSON

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — The National Education Association will install a Negro school teacher in one of its top spots in 1965 — even before many of its Southern units are integrated.

Elizabeth Koontz, who has taught for 24 years in the Negro schools of Salisbury, will be the first of her race to become president of the NEA's Department of Classroom Teachers.

She will take over as spokesman for 830,000 teachers, or 92 per cent of the NEA's membership, at a time when segregated state teacher groups are making final plans to merge. The NEA recently recommended the mergers be complete by 1966.

"It's going to take some time," Mrs. Koontz said. "These are voluntary organizations."

The state groups must be merged without annihilation of either the white or Negro organization, she said, in order to preserve the leadership and active membership in both.

Mrs. Koontz believes the mergers will help the transition to integration at the teacher level as well as the student level.

She said integration at the teacher level could become a reality today in many cities "if the boards of education took the lead."

Crowded classrooms, teacher shortages and teacher salaries will be additional national problems in which she will be involved.

"Just the cost of one rocket or missile could go a long way to supplying the additional classrooms we need," she said.

The great numbers of new teachers being trained are not solving the teacher shortage either, she said, because 50 per cent leave after the first year.

"Often the first-year teacher has to take the roughest situation in schools and there is such a frustration about it that the teacher feels it just isn't worth it," she said.

The lure of higher pay in industry also attracts many teachers who she believes "really prefer to remain in teaching."

Better salaries, tenure or "some kind of job assurance," and maybe probationary periods for new teachers — "to protect the teacher as well as school officials" — will be mandatory if the nation wants to hold young teachers, she said.

Teaching is Mrs. Koontz' first love. Both her parents were teachers and she married a teacher. The couple has no children.

She attended Negro schools in her home town of Salisbury, which has a population of 23,000. Only a handful of Negroes now attend white schools in the

"I've no love for Renwick," French said thinly, "but it was some guy from Yuma with a I.O.U. that put Cotten's prop-

"An I.O.U. that was phony as a three-dollar bill. Why do you reckon they've been keeping Cotten alive? Why torture him? Use your head, man! You got a chance to stop them!"

"Them?" French stared. "There were three men who stopped that stage," Ives regarded had hovered thoughtfully. "One—a former badge packer—you'll find back there with Juke's pappy—name of Si Twillet. He's got a slug through his bean. Which leaves two unaccounted for."

The words seemed to hang like solid lumps in the air while Ives' considering look anchored the man in his tracks. French stirred uneasily, a scowl twisting his face. Something darkly uncertain, something almost askance, began to widen his stare.

Ives said, "Step over here," and the rancher, nearly bursting with the churn of his emotions, suddenly found himself incredibly, peering up from a stance at the fellow's scuffed oxbow.

Though French could not hide his chagrin at the sight of the badge and resentment he was scarcely less bothered than the man in the saddle. Ives, bitterly reluctant, but seeing no way around it, murmured: "Would Frank Ives word be good enough for you?"

French nodded his head slowly.

Freshly mounted, on his way within 10 minutes, Ives worriedly rode toward the Cotten headquarters now held by the Court in Renwick's custody.

No man in his boots could have been more disgruntled. The payroll had been in that cave. He'd dragged it out and rehidden it the best he was able with the need of both Cottens so frantically hampering him. Any diligent search would be sure to uncover it. His whole trail though this country was so strewn with loose ends that at the rate he was going every man in these hills would know Frank Ives was among them if he didn't bring this deal to a speedy conclusion.

His mouth tightened at the look he had seen on French's face when that name had washed over him.

If Ives had guessed wrong and French was the masked robber, Hollis Cotten couldn't name, it was entirely in the cards Frank would never get out of this country alive.

Just short of noon Ives sighted the clutter of buildings and pens which he reckoned to be the Cotten ranch home place. Hoary old oaks lifted a smudge of dark green and the dance of mauve shadows across the front of a house whose weather-grayed siding had probably never known paint.

Yet the feeling Ives got was comfortably utilitarian, a give-and-take serenity set in sharp contrast by the irrational scowl and hooded stare of the fellow who watched from the appendage of a porch.

"What do you want, mister?"

Slack in the saddle Ives walking, he was belligerent greeting. Slacked his mount with an air of assurance into the hoof poked dust of the empty yard, saying nothing at all until the Diamond F gelding was practically breasting the porch's skimpy rail.

His visitor let the silence add its own mounting pressure to the continuing survey while deftly, left-handedly, he put together a smoke.

Hauling drawstrings tight against the bite of strong teeth, Ives, licking his quirk, thrust the makings away.

Firing up he said, unhurriedly: "Who are you?"

It was a calculated affront, but the fellow was no fool. He backed off, glassily staring, to give himself room, jaws grinding, the leap of prodded temp only barely controlled.

In a raw tone of voice: "Ed Flawrence," he grated. "For your information the boss of this layout!"

"Why didn't you say so?" Ives looked at him crossly. "Feller'd think I was a revenue man, you been actin' like you stayed him up and down again."

"I'll say this once, so clean your ears. You got company coming. An' you'll keep a civil tongue in your head or there's like to be changes around here. That plain enough for you?"

It was outrageous, of course. Flawrence naturally bridled, but such assurance was unsettling. Taking a wrap around his passions, Renwick's riding boss, simmering, grumbled, "What company?"

"Juke Cotten and them drifters that's been splittin' your herd. They're fetchin' back the cows they ran off."

Badgers Are Back in the AA Circle

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

Absent since '59, the Arkadelphia Badgers have decided, or rather been told, to come up and play with the big boys of 4AA.

After a disastrous season five years ago, the Badgers dropped out of AA contention and went after smaller game in 7A. They haven't exactly torn up that district in the last few years either, as a matter of fact.

Last year they managed only a fifth place in the seven team region, although they were slated in pre-season picks as a sure bet for top honors.

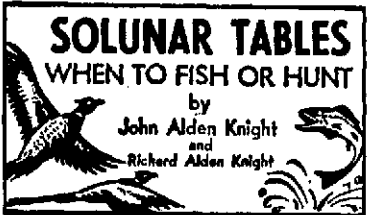

Offense is to be one of the bad points for Arkadelphia. Averaging only seven points per game last year, they are inexperienced and not expected to do much better this season.

What offense the Badgers have will have to come from quarterback Steve Tilley, 170, and fullback Billy Tucker, also 170; two of the three seniors that will return.

The only other upper classman will be letterman tackle Doug Shirley, who weighs in at 190. He will share duties with two juniors, Fred Strickland, 182, and Jerry Hunter, the biggest man on the team at 205.

Arkadelphia will not depend much on size. The line averages 170, and the backfield only 155. They have no breakaway threat. The strong point for the Badgers, if they have one, will have to be defense.

The Badgers picked a bad year to come back.

Annual Problem of Life Is Just What to Do About Those Christmas Cards This Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is the Christmas card problem.

There are several aspects to it — such as what cards to buy, when to mail them, and whom to send them to.

Buying them isn't much of a task. If you don't feel like going to a store, all you have to do is stay home and wait. Sometime between the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving, at least 75 strangers will knock on your door and offer to sell you Christmas cards.

There are more people selling Christmas cards this time of year than are taking in laundry.

All of them are doing it to promote a worthy cause. It has been our custom for several years to buy our Christmas cards from a shifty-eyed fellow who says he is trying to raise funds to send more Hottentots to Harvard. The goal isn't so much to help the Hottentots as it is to lift the horizons of Harvard.

Every year he tries to sell us a humorous Christmas card showing the three Wise Men riding piggyback on a single camel. We always turn him down because we think the card is in execrable taste — and besides it costs a quarter.

Year after year we always buy the same card. It shows a lighted candle and a wreath and says "With Seasonal Good Wishes." You really can't expect to get more than that for a nickel — while simultaneously sending a Hottentot to Harvard.

We usually buy 250 cards.

The question arises then as to whom to send them. Only the desperately insecure person tries to be the first in his block to mail out his Christmas cards. We follow a simple formula.

Scrappers Hopeful for a Comeback

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

After a rather rough season last year, the Nashville Scrappers are hoping for a return to the winner's circle that they have occupied in years gone by.

The Scrappers took top honors for two years in a row, '61 and '62, but then sank to one step above the cellar in the seven team District 7A.

Key to the offensive punch will be the halfback speedsters, junior Martin Carezza, and 155-pound Terry McAllister.

The nucleus of the line that averages 160 will be tackle Chaney Floyd, 175, and end David Bennet, 155.

Head coach Dwight Jones believes that with his defense and a little luck he can make his presence felt in the rough 7A race. He may have a little trouble handling the bigger boys.

Bobcats Have Respect for the Leopards

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star SportsWriter

"We'll be lucky to get out alive."

This is the manner in which head coach Alan Howard describes the Bobcat-DeQueen Leopard match to be held in Hammons Stadium tonight at 7:30.

Coach Howard was pulling no punches in his judgment of DeQueen. "They're real tough, and aggressive, as DeQueen usually is. They're a much better team than Prescott."

Howard also admitted that he "expected trouble" from the DeQueen linebackers. 165-pound halfback Danny Pike, and guard Jimmy Tollett, also 165. "They're as good as any we've seen this year."

The Leopards run out of a split-T. They like to give quarterback Richard Knight the option on the spring-out. They also run a lot of counter plays.

Pike, and his running mate, Greg Eley, 170, are exceptionally quick and pose a break-away threat. The 181-pound fullback, Larry Havins, although large, is fairly slow.

On defense DeQueen uses the wide-tackle six. This gives them a lot of pursuit. They also enjoy a little gang tackling every now and then.

In the way of personal records, Danny Pike averaged 4.5 yards per carry last year. Knight has him beat, however, with a nice, round five yards per for the season. He played halfback last year.

When it comes to grudges, the Leopards are after Hope. Last year's team lost only twice, once to Hope and once to St. Annes, the scourge of District 4A and one of the few teams in the state to go undefeated. (They were 11-0.)

Tonight's game is another in the age-old rivalry between these two teams.

Rights Party Has Lost Its Candidate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The National States Rights Party of Arkansas lost its candidate for governor Wednesday and threw its support to the Democratic candidate, Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Kenneth L. Hurst of Clarendon, a grocer who had the NSRP nomination for governor, mailed a letter to Secretary of State Kelly Bryant saying he would not be a candidate.

In the letter Hurst said he was "doing my part to save us all from (Republican candidate Winthrop) Rockefeller and the likes of him who would take over this state."

But the letter came after Hurst's chances of being on the ballot had dimmed considerably.

The party certified presidential and vice presidential candidates but not Hurst. Mrs. E. L. Bishop of Fayetteville said the action was taken at Hurst's request.

John Kasper of Nashville, Tenn., is the candidate for president and J. B. Stoner of Mabelton, Ga., is the candidate for vice president.

Stoner said he would hold open air rallies in Arkansas in behalf of his campaign.

Mrs. Bishop told newsmen at Bryant's office that she hoped everyone associated with the states rights movement would vote for Faubus on Nov. 3.

Hurst did not appear Tuesday night at the party convention at the home of Thomas J. Bardin in North Little Rock, but it was thought at the time that he planned to come to Little Rock for his certification.

In his letter he said he had been "holding out this long hoping that (Alabama Gov. George C.) Gov. Wallace would find it in his heart to head this country, but it looks like he's got cold feet or something at the last minute."

Sheriff Fears Spill Over of Gambling

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Legalized gambling in Garland County would spill over into surrounding counties "and it has a tendency to crawl into other people's lives," Sheriff Frank Mackey of Pulaski County said Wednesday.

He spoke at an anti-gambling workshop here sponsored by Churches United Against Gambling, which is working to defeat the proposed constitutional amendment to legalize casino gambling in Hot Springs and Garland County.

Mackey said gambling grabs a person and "tenaciously holds on until its victim is down in the gutter or in the penitentiary." He called gambling cancerous.

The amendment would place legalized gambling under state control.

But Mackey attacked the so-called safeguards of the amendment, saying that a 10-year residency requirement to get a casino license would be easy for gamblers to get around.

Little Rock Police Chief R. E. Briens, who conducted an anti-gambling campaign in Little Rock during the last racing season at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, said legalizing gambling would be "as disastrous as running a stop sign because the anti-gambling laws amount to just a stop sign."

Rev. Richard Edgar of Washington, D.C., a member of the General Board of Christian Social Concerns of the Methodist Church, told church workers that the amendment would pass unless laymen got into the fight against it.

Goldwater to Pay Visit to Arkansas

Buckaroos Appear to Have Power

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star SportsWriter

Rated last year as the hottest thing to hit the 4AA gridiron in many years, the Smackover Buckaroos had to settle for second place in the District behind Hope.

This year the Cats have been given the coveted nod and the Bucks would like nothing better than to turn the tables and upset Hope's apple cart.

Coach Guy Hays is up to his old tricks by predicting a district crown for his Battlin' Bucks, although the experts may doubt his optimism.

Smackover will field the biggest team that they have had for several years. Although not the size of the ponderous line that the Bobcats sported last year, the Bucks will have a heavy line for a high school team.

The mainstays on the forward wall will be 200-pound O.J. Taylor; crack tackle Charles Wilkins, 195; Bill McHaynie, 185; and Ronnie Montgomery, 180.

The big offensive threat for the Bucks will be a double-barreled halfback situation. Warren Bryce, 187; and Reggie Speights, 190; are both exceptional runners; although they will not have the speed upon which the Bucks have relied in years past.

Depth will be the most vulnerable points for Smackover. But it only takes eleven men to play ball, and barring injury, the Bucks have a shot at the regional honors they missed by inches last year.

governor of Arkansas," Goldwater said.

Travis Beeson, candidate for lieutenant governor of Arkansas, also was here for the speech. Many other Arkansans were in the crowd, some waving Arkansas signs.

Rockefeller said and Goldwater had not yet agreed on a date for the senator's visit to Arkansas.

When Rockefeller arrived in his campaign bus, a group of workers began moving through the crowd handing out campaign material.

Cardinals Have the Potential

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

Memories of 1962 haunt the dreams of many of this year's Fairview Cardinals. That was the year that Fairview went 5-1 in the conference and captured the title.

Although they are rated by the experts as unable to finish anywhere near the top, our personal opinion is that they have the potential to give someone a hard time if caught on a good night.

A lot will depend on quarterback Bob Bush, who is excellent as either a passer or runner. He also will handle the punting duties. Team him up with 6'3" end Roger Wright, and they can do things that will murder a defensive secondary.

And if the Cards feel like staying on terra firma, all Bush has to do is give to Carl Hern, a punishing fullback that weighs in at 180.

Place in front of him a line that averages 173 pounds, and things look a little better than next to last in 4AA, where Fairview was placed in pre-season picks.

One of the things troubling Coach Huie Lindsey is his lack of depth. What else? Every 4AA coach is lamenting his lack of subs.

With a little luck and their split-T, the Cards might make somebody have fits.

Magnolia Appears to Be Rebuilding

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

Although a popular contender this year after an especially good mark of 8-3 last year, Magnolia will have a long way to go after a 20-7 loss to Malvern.

Magnolia was hard up before this fall for lack of a quarterback. Graduation of all-star Mickey Christian left a big hole in the Panther line-up. Coach Joe Thomason chose to fill it with halfback Dorsey Bearden, who did all right for himself last season in that position.

Since Bearden has come to quarterback, there will be a big space left at the halfback position. Shouldering some of the responsibility for the running game will be junior fullback Mike Weber, 165.

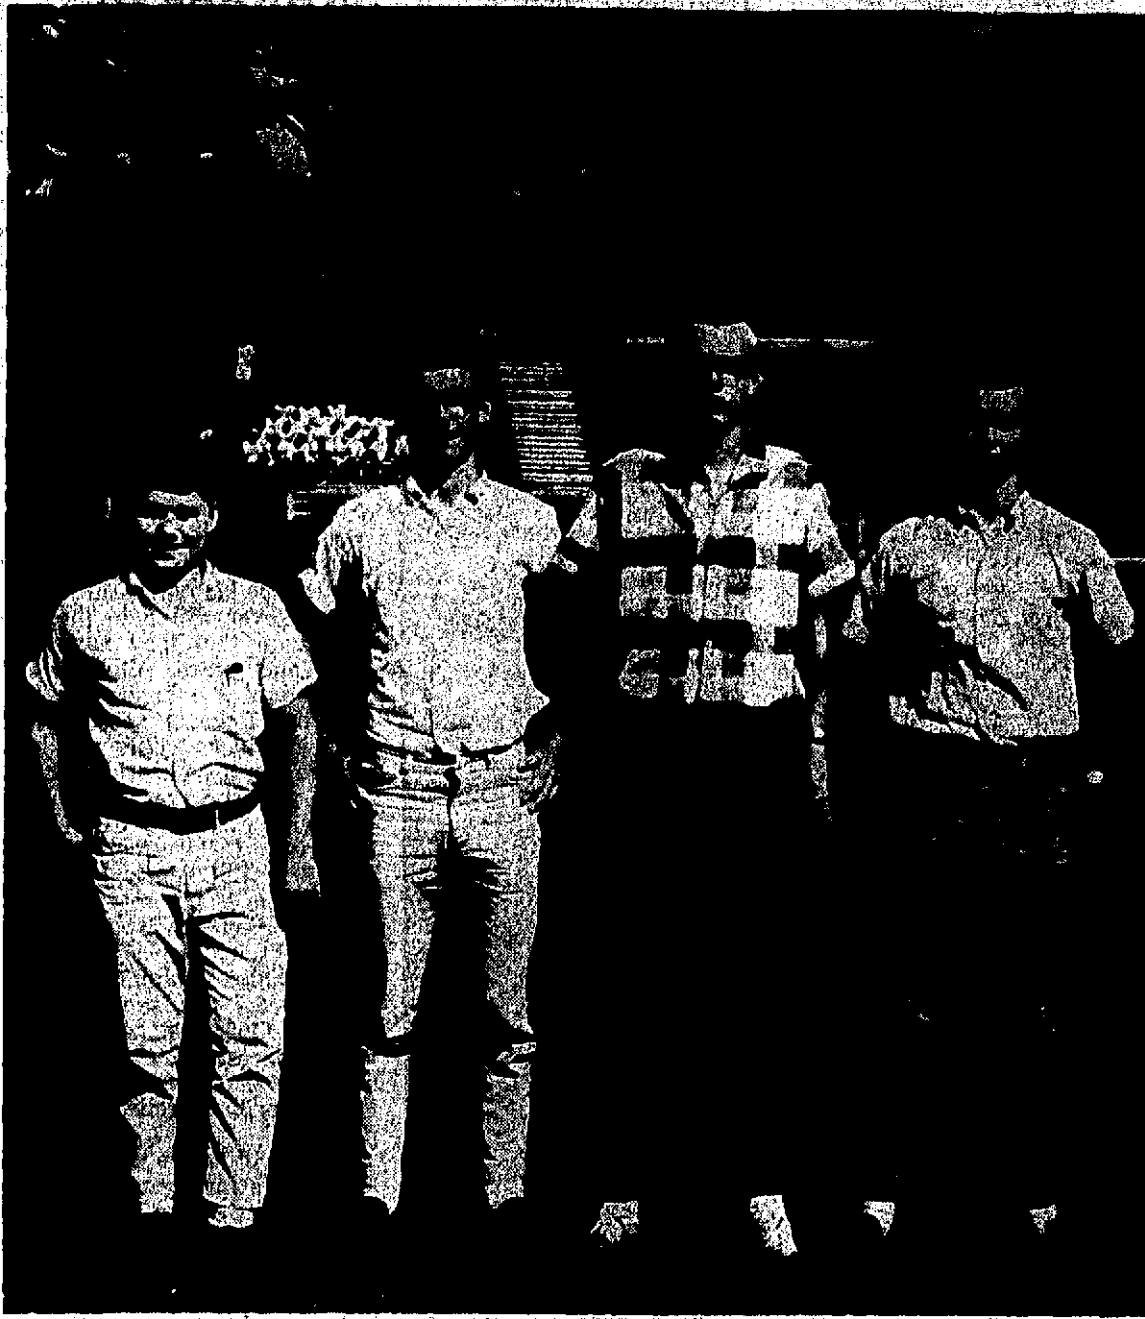

An experienced line should help the Panther situation a little. Tackles Mac Allwhite, 190, and David Rogers, 185, are both far above average. Mike Ingram is a top guard.

The major part of any real estate that the Panthers get will have to come by way of a good running game. Bearden has no experience as a passer, and even if he did, he would have no one to pass to.

Things are already looking a little bleak for Magnolia. But miracles are somehow commonplace in 4AA. Only time will tell.

Oldest public school in the U.S. is Boston Latin School, at Boston, Mass., founded in 1635.

Texas Hit by a 15 Inch Rain

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Reports of serious flooding filtered out of the Carrizo Springs area in southwest Texas early today on the heels of cloudbursts loosing up to 15 inches of rain.

Broken communications left the severity of the situation unclear, but state police said word of the deluge came from several individuals, including an unidentified long-distance telephone operator.

Sheriff's officers were reported manning boats in efforts to reach people marooned by high water.

Efforts to reach offices of the sheriff, city police and the U.S. Border Patrol at Carrizo Springs by telephone were unavailing.

State police were advised several highways were blocked by water, including a section of U.S. 83 between Carrizo Springs and Asherton, 9 miles south.

Things Look Up for the Panthers

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sportswriter

Things are looking up for the Camden Panthers.

Last year the Panthers had 1-10 troubles and went without a single win in regional play. They can't do much worse than that.

Actually, they should do a lot better. Although Coach Roy Ledbetter complains of lack of depth, he has a meaty line and a backfield that shows possibilities.

Tom Bensberg, senior guard, and center Paul Rothert, both 180-pounders, provide a little experience around which to build a line. Returning letterman in the tackle position will be Tommy Hughes, 190.

There are two possibilities for quarterback, both inexperienced. They are 135-pound senior Dennis Falwell, with a little action under his belt, and Bobby Borgoin, fresh off the B team.

If Borgoin can limber up his passing arm, he should have two able receivers in returning ends Mike Honeycutt, 160, and Chet McCord, 170.

This year the Panthers will try to play like the big boys in the pro ranks and use an I formation.

In the I formation, the fullback receives the blocking assignment, while the tailback carries the ball.

Ark. Senators Split Vote

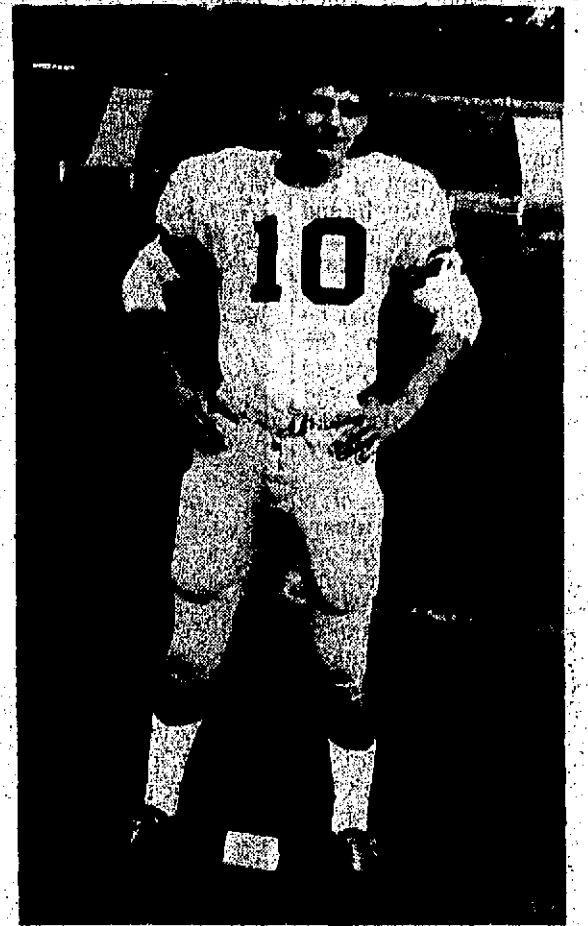

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas' senators split their vote Tuesday on two key issues in the battle on reapportionment of state legislatures.

Sen. J. William Fulbright voted for a compromise "sense of the Congress" proposal dealing with legislative apportionment decisions of the federal courts. Sen. John L. McClellan voted against the proposal, which was defeated 42-40.

The proposal said it is the sense of Congress that the courts should permit reasonable time for apportioning state legislatures.

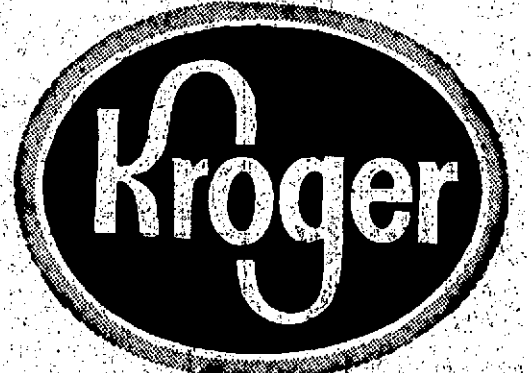

McClellan voted for an amendment to the foreign aid bill to strip the federal courts of jurisdiction over state legislative reapportionment cases. Fulbright voted against it. The measure was defeated 65-21.

Lumberjacks Newcomers to District

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

Joining the AAA ranks for the first time this year is the terror of District 8A North, the Warren Lumberjacks.

For two years no team has been able to whip the rugged Lumberjacks. Both years, they went 11-0-1, and were rated as the best of A in the state.

Due to this, they have been picked to rate high in regional play this year. They have even been called a long shot at the crown, but who isn't?

It is doubtful that Warren will fare quite as well as in past years. True, they played district teams last year, but they have always had a couple of weeks to get ready. Not so this year. There will be a battle every Friday night.

An able backfield can be formed around highly-rated fullback David McMurtry, 185, and halfback Mike McClendon, 175. Quarterback Stan Williams is especially known for his ability and complete team control when the going gets rough.

An unusually light and inexperienced line will hamper the Lumberjacks, and Coach Jamie Raper, handling the squad while head coach Mickey O'Quinn is away for a year, is also worried about lack of depth, a problem with many of his counterparts in other schools.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Whimsy and fantasy are as delicate as bubbles, easily shattered by rough handling. And somebody with a sledgehammer got to fooling around with "Be-witched," ABC's new comedy series.

The result, on display for the first time Thursday night, was disappointing, for the original idea was enchanting. It was proposed to take a pretty young witch named Samantha, descendant of a long line of house-haunting, broomstick-riding, cauldron-stirring witches, and have her fall in love with a typical, red-blooded American boy.

At that point, apparently, the Hollywood s a u s a g e-makers started meddling with the brew. First they transformed the typical red-blooded American boy into an advertising agency man. Then they endowed Samantha with a bunch of those familiar magic tricks that "My Favorite Martian" has been performing for about a year now.

Finally — and this was the lowest blow of all — they added a laugh track that could only have been recorded by an audience watching the Three Stooges throw pies.

Elizabeth Montgomery plays Samantha in a broad style better suited to Carol Burnett. Dick York plays her pop-eyed husband. The meat of the first episode involved a dinner given by the husband's jealous ex-girl friend, who tried to embarrass the bride. Miss Montgomery evoked her best tricks by wiggling her nose like a rabbit, made dishes move, windows fly open and trays spill.

Walter Cronkite has been brought back to the news fronts from a short exile by his CBS bosses who found that two did no better than one heading up the network's convention coverage.

Preacher Is an Officer During Week

Religion in the News

By AMBROSE B. DUDLEY

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. Mr. Grigg, a Baptist retired from the pulpit in 1951 because of a throat ailment. He put on the badge of a Lincoln County deputy sheriff in 1962 at the suggestion of a church deacon, Sheriff J. Earle Norwood.

"When I arrest someone I can always preach him a sermon on the way to jail and there isn't much he can do about it," said Grigg, who lives on a five-acre farm with his wife.

The 70-year-old preaching deputy said he doesn't take all the offenders to jail, especially teenagers.

"You can talk to these young bullies who have just gotten out of school and do some good," Grigg said.

"I caught three boys about 17 years old the other day with three cans of beer and some white liquor. I poured it out. They said they were going to mix it and drink it.

"I gave them a lecture about the evils of liquor," the Rev. Mr. Grigg said. "They didn't know anything about liquor. You know the next day one of the boys called me up and thanked me."

The Rev. Mr. Grigg said the people he arrests sometimes ask him to pray for them.

"When I arrest someone," he said, "I tell him there is a time a coming that he is going to be ashamed of what he did. When you can look back and say you have lived a life you are not ashamed of it is wonderful."

"I tell them there is only one man who can cure you. You can use all the man-made cures you want, but only the Lord can cure the lust."

The Rev. Mr. Grigg still officiates for sick ministers, at funerals, and at weddings. He was a radio pulp minister on a Concord radio station for six years.

He said he gets the same low pay and works the same irregular hours as a deputy that he did as a full-time minister.

"But I don't mind," he said.

Three Charged as Counterfeiters

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three employees of the Arkansas Highway Department were charged today with making counterfeit currency in the state Capitol.

A fourth man, who worked for a transportation company, was charged with possessing phony bills.

Leroy Letteer, Secret Service special agent in charge here, said about 150 bills in ones and 10s had been recovered. He said the money had been distributed among the men, but said he did not know if any had been circulated.

The three department employees were reproduction technicians, and used state equipment in the counterfeiting, Letteer said.

"When I go out of this old world I want to leave it in better shape than I found it. A man has a certain mission and I think this is part of mine."

Boosters Buy Extras for the Bobcats

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

The purpose of the Hope Booster Club is to provide for further athletics which the school can not afford. This may range from purchasing frozen orange juice for the Bobcats to erecting the sign over Hammons Stadium.

This very worthwhile organization is composed of almost two hundred local men and women. They spend in excess of $500 annually. This money is earned through membership fees and other money-making projects, such as the concession stand in Jones Field House.

This money is used in the way that best benefits Hope High Athletics. This might be filming the football games, purchasing a blocking sled, providing for the weights and isometric program, or sending the team to see a pro game.

Newly elected officers for the year are: Vince Massanelli, president; Bill Burnett, vice president; and Lorene Jordan, secretary-treasurer.

The civic-minded members of this club receive absolutely nothing in return for their completely untiring and unselfish devotion except the satisfaction of seeing the young people in this area benefit from their efforts. Our hats are off to these people, without whom the Hope High athletic program would not be where it is today.

Optimism Fades in Strike Talks

By A.F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP)—Top negotiators for Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union said today they were "less optimistic" than before that a strike can be avoided at Ford by Friday's 10 a.m. (EST) deadline.

Both UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Ford Vice President Malcolm Denise agreed as they entered a 24-hour, show-down bargaining session there still were issues on the table that could erupt in a strike of Ford's 165,000 production workers.

Reuther expressed most concern in the areas of production standards and working conditions and said there must be some give on the part of the company "or they will stop making cars tomorrow."

Reuther complained some workers aren't given sufficient time for the work assigned them, particularly on the assembly line.

Denise said he was "mystified" by Reuther's claim of what amounted to worker exploitation, and added: "There's no basic argument a fellow shouldn't have time to do the job assigned him."

Reuther agreed that a new offer from Ford "is essentially the Chrysler package," but said there was major disagreement over "dimensions of the money they are willing to allocate to wage inequities."

He said this unwillingness and disagreement on noneconomic issues were the chief stumbling blocks to early agreement.

When Hank Bauer, present Baltimore coach, played for the Yankees, he hit safely in 17 straight World Series games.

"DEAR ABBY"

PAINFULLY RIGHT

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: My wife and I invited her parents to spend two weeks with us at our summer home. My father-in-law is an ardent sports fan, and while I like to listen to baseball games now and then, I dislike a steady diet of them. I had looked forward to this vacation to catch up on some long delayed pleasure reading. My father-in-law turned on all the baseball games without asking whether they would bother anyone else in the room. I took it for a week, but I balked when he added football games. He and his wife accused me of being a poor host.

They said that we, by inviting them, had in effect turned over the use of our home to them. I said that their manners were poor, and I would no more turn on a baseball game without asking them than sit down and start reading aloud in their presence without permission. There was a scene and they left in a huff. Who was right?

POOR HOST?

Dear Host: There is more than one way to skin a cat. You apparently chose the most painful method. You were right. But you could have set them straight in a more diplomatic manner.

Dear Abby: Here's the situation: The girl is 24 and the man is 27. They went steady for two years and have been engaged for the last 3 years. They are always arguing and he has even hit her a couple of times, but they always make up. He criticizes the way she wears her hair, the way she puts on her make-up, how she dresses and spends her money. He has all kinds of excuses for not getting married. They both have good jobs and lots of other couples have made it on less. What can be done about a relationship that seems to be going nowhere?

THE GIRL

Dear Girl: I think the faster this relationship gets "nowhere" the better off you both will be. Lovers who fight constantly during courtship usually battle forever after if they marry. Throw in the towel before he wins by a technical knock-out.

Dear Abby: My 20-year-old daughter is an exceptionally pretty girl. She has always been very popular and I never worried about her. We are very close. Lately she has been asking me questions that have led me to believe that she is far more advanced in her exper-

Others will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the battle of New Orleans and honor Robert Fulton, the early American inventor, on the 200th anniversary of his birth.

Kill Mosquitoes

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Health Director A. M. Davison has urged property owners to use insecticides to kill mosquitoes because four horses in the area were recently found to have encephalitis.

Fourteen cases of the disease are suspected in humans in the state.

Dr. Davison said the cases in horses were in Fort Smith, Washington County and Sallisaw, Okla.

lences with boys (one in particular) than she should be. I wish she would be 100 percent frank with me so that I could warn her of some of the things girls should be careful of. Yet I don't want her to think I am giving my approval to anything that is wrong. I hope I am making sense, Abby. I guess what I want to ask is this: Is it wrong for a mother to tell her daughter everything she thinks she ought to know in case she needs the information?

A MOTHER

Dear Mother: If the mother thinks her daughter "ought to know" — it is wrong NOT to tell her.

Confidential To Howard: To avoid those "Blue Mondays" try going to church on Sundays.
